

RECORDS FOR COLD WEATHER BROKEN ALL OVER COUNTRY

Worse Conditions Predicted for Today Within 1,000-Mile Radius of Great Lakes—Inability in Some Places to Care for Poor Expected to Result in Long List of Deaths. This Section in Affected Territory

Cold weather records for the year, and in many instances for many years, broken today, will be broken again in the succeeding 24 hours in the territory within a 1,000-mile radius of the Great Lakes, according to the prediction issued tonight by the Chicago weather bureau.

In the immediate vicinity of the lakes, where the open water tempered the blast, temperatures were materially higher than in places farther away. A low record for many years for Chicago was established shortly before noon, however, at 9.6 below zero. For tomorrow 15 degrees below zero is predicted.

West as far as the Rocky mountains and north into Montana low temperatures of today, it is predicted, would be forgotten in the bitter blasts of the next 24 hours. Canada's low figure of today—42 below zero—was expected to be lowered several degrees and in states northwest of Chicago, where today Duluth reported 35 below, La Crosse registered 25 below and Eau Claire, Wis., 28 below, a shrinkage of the mercury to figures like 40 and 30 and 32 degrees, respectively, was predicted.

Suffering increased as the day wore on in spite of a short lull in the cold spell, where in many places the temperature rose to within a few degrees of zero. Little suffering was reported in country regions, where a few persons were without shelter. In cities, however, the middle west, however, city and country "poor" agents worked late into the night with benevolent societies distributing and collecting clothing and fuel. Frost bite and sickness common to cold weather, were reported and late in the day death rode in with the increasing cold and began a harvest in several states. More deaths were expected in the coming day because of the inability of "poor" agents to reach needy families and because of the inability of city police and municipal lodging houses to provide sufficient shelter.

Tonight's forecast said:

Sunday also will be cold, and the skies will remain clear. No immediate relief is in sight. The wind will continue to blow from the northwest. At Chicago today, the wind reached a velocity of 23 miles an hour. In western states it reached as high as 45 miles an hour.

At 4 p.m. today the predicted drop began in Chicago. By 9:30 p.m. it had reached the day's low mark and was still going down.

Colorado Cattle Freezing.

DENVER, Jan. 5.—Several thousand head of cattle are said to be freezing and starving in eastern Colorado because of the intense cold of the last 10 days. Snow is reported to be two feet thick and frozen over in many localities and large numbers of calves and yearlings are said to have succumbed.

Cattle growers are anxious to ship their herds elsewhere in the state where feed may be obtained on open ranges but they are prevented by government quarantine against range. United States Senator Simon Guggenheim has been telegraphed at Washington to do something that will enable eastern Colorado cattlemen to save their herds.

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 5.—Temperatures in eastern Missouri and southern Illinois ranged from two degrees below to 16 degrees above zero today. At Hannibal, Mo., the thermometer registered two below and at Cairo, Ill., 16 above.

LAWRENCE, Kan., Jan. 5.—So far the present winter is proving the most severe Kansas has experienced in 25 years.

In the Black Hills.

RAPID CITY, S. D., Jan. 5.—The intense cold and the snow of the last few weeks have brought severe suffering among homesteaders in the Black Hills. Railroads have agreed to haul grain and coal free of charge to tide over the settlers.

CHAMP CLARK IS ILL

Speaker of National House Threatened With Pneumonia. It is Feared.

Takes to His Bed

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—Speaker Champ Clark, who has fought off a severe cold since his return from his western trip, was forced today to take to his bed. It is feared he is threatened with pneumonia.

The speaker presided in the house today but immediately on his return home was compelled to retire.

The speaker contracted a slight cold during his speaking tour in Oklahoma. He did not let it interfere with his engagements, although his advisers insisted that he should cancel his speaking dates. When he returned to Washington to prepare for the opening of the present session, he caught a cold from which he has not recovered. The cold became worse. To-day the veteran statesman surrendered.

The shaping of the legislative program for the session has then a great strain on Mr. Clark and this coupled with the sudden advent today of bitter weather, is believed to have resulted in a cold which has now become pneumonia.

It is said that the speaker will be out in a few days, but his condition at the present time is taking on a serious character.

W. of A. at its annual convention in this city last night. The executive board of the federation is requested to order a referendum vote on the proposed consolidation immediately.

ASKS $50,000 MONUMENT FOR SPANISH EXPLORER

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—Representative Baughman of Missouri today introduced a bill to appropriate $50,000 for erecting a monument overlooking the Panama canal to commemorate the four hundredth anniversary of the discovery of the isthmus by Vasco Nunez de Balboa, the Spanish explorer. Balboa crossed the isthmus in 1513.

CALIFORNIA CONGRESSMAN IS FOR WOMAN SUFFRAGE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—Representative Baker of California, Democrat, joined the ranks of woman suffragists today. He introduced a resolution for a constitutional amendment giving women the right to vote.

ASSERTS SHERMAN LAW WILL REACH TRUSTS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—The interstate commerce commission of the senate today resumed its hearing on the trust problem.

Mr. Parker of New Orleans, president of the American Bar association, told the committee that monopoly and restraint of trade were brought about by holding companies, by consolidation of corporations and by agreement of directors of corporations engaged in the same line of business.

"They all can be reached by the Sherman Antitrust law," he added.

Mr. Parker said the question of amending the Sherman law was so colossal that it should be undertaken only after a most careful study. He contended that any change could bar any corporation which might be injurious to its welfare, and that Congress could not afford to experiment with changing into interstate commerce.

CHANGES IN U. S. MILITARY PRISON

Purely Civil Offenders Will Be Moved From Fort Leavenworth to California

LEAVENWORTH, Kan., Jan. 5.—A change in the military prison at Fort Leavenworth today, with the receipt by Col. T. H. Stevens, commandant of an order from the war department to transfer all purely civil offenders to the military prison at Alcatraz, island, California.

On January 12 a transfer of 125 men will be made. A strong guard will accompany them to California, and return with 25 military prisoners for the institution here.

The change follows the new policy of the war department to segregate at Alcatraz island and Fort Leavenworth the soldiers convicted of civil offenses. Men convicted of purely military offenses will be confined in the prison here, the ultimate purpose being to turn the present prison into a reformatory and put into effect the British system.

Under the American system, men convicted of purely military offenses, such as desertion, loss of civil rights, as well as any further opportunity to serve in the army. The new idea is to confine these men until a reform has been accomplished, when they will be released without any loss of civil rights, and if they so desire, permitted to re-enlist.

CAPTURE 400 CANS OPIUM

EL PASO, Tex., Jan. 5.—Four hundred cans of opium were captured and confiscated in Ciudad Juarez tonight through the work of United States customs officials and the Juarez police.

The opium was found in the Juarez express office, consigned to Chinaman, from Colima, Mexico, and loaded as drugs. The boxes were opened and found to contain opium. Ming Wu, another Chinaman, and a Mexican of Juarez are under arrest in that city and Frank Lee is also under arrest in this city, in connection with the affair. The authorities believe they have the smugglers in a big trap, and expect to have them in custody soon.

ENGINE EXPLODES; TWO DEAD

The engine was demolished, about 50 feet of the round house destroyed and a water tank toppled from its supports.

The explosion was caused by a leak in the boiler. Fragments of iron from the engine and bricks from the roundhouse were scattered about the engine.

The man who worked on the engine was killed. The other man who was killed was a helper. The three injured men are in the hospital.

COURTS MUST BE LESS RECKLESS

MISUSE OF POWER WILL CAUSE REACTION

Roosevelt Hopes People Soon May Make Unrepealable Laws Through Ballot

NEW YORK, Jan. 5.—Theodore Roosevelt discusses "Judges and Progress" in an editorial appearing in the current issue of the Outlook. He says in part:

Let me, at the outset, put so clearly that only willful misinterpretation can deceive people, just what my position as to the courts is. I have the very highest regard, the highest respect and admiration, for the judiciary. As a judge, I think that our judges of every station on a higher level than any other body of public servants, or for the matter of that, of private citizens.

I would name offhand at this moment a number of judges now on the bench who render to the people more substantial service of more far-reaching value than is rendered by any other men in public or private life—and all of these judges, substantially, actuated by the position hereby taken, which indeed is largely derived from their belief that the courts have rendered our people incalculable service. I hold that the attitude of our people toward them should be one of appreciation and respect, but not of servility.

I must emphatically believe that we have been wise in giving great power to our judges, including the power of judicial interpretation of statutes, to see whether they conform with the fundamental law of the land. But I also must firmly believe that the power of the courts should not be abused, and that it is a power with which the people have merely temporarily parted, and not one which they have permanently alienated. Used judiciously and moderately and only in the clearest cases, as it has been used by our greatest judges from the days of Marshall to the days of Brandeis.

A. B. MESERVEY DIES

AFTER LONG ILLNESS

Albert B. Meservy, 52 years of age, died in Los Angeles yesterday morning. Death was due to stomach trouble, and although Mr. Meservy had been in poor health for the last two years, the end was not considered so near. He had lived in this city for 23 years, and for the last 12 years had been vice president of the Lowell-Meservy Hardware company. With him in California was his wife, who had accompanied him on his search for health several weeks ago. She will return with the body next Monday, and funeral services will be held Monday afternoon from the Elks home, with interment in Evergreen cemetery. Further details have not been completed.

Mr. Meservy is also survived by a son, Thomas Meservy, of the Lowell-Meservy Hardware company, and a daughter, Marjorie, who is attending a girls' seminary near Chicago. She has been notified of her father's death and will hasten to this city. E. C. Mc-

REDFORD, Cal., Jan. 5.—Sheriff's posse and railroad detectives are searching this city tonight, in an effort to capture a lone bandit who robbed the mail car on Southern Pacific train No. 16, the Oregon express, today. Rewards amounting to $2,000 have been offered for the capture of the man, who, according to the description given by the mail clerks, probably is a consumptive. Officials believe him to be a college man who came west for his health, and who, unable to obtain work, resorted to robbery.

The robber entered the mail car at Red Bluff, and at the point of a revolver, compelled Mail Clerk Charles J. Rhein to the hands of Mail Clerk Robert B. Wagner and Helper Peter Henrich, and to give them with their own handkerchiefs. The men's feet were tied into empty mail sacks. The robber, who appeared cool and somewhat amused, ordered Rhein to open the registered mail sacks and picked out and opened all letters, but disregarded packages. He instructed Rhein to throw off the usual mail at small stations. As the train neared Redding, the robber bound and gagged Rhein, and tied his feet in a mail sack. As the train pulled into Redding, the robber stepped from the car and walked away.

Rhein succeeded in working the gag loose, and cried for help, attracting the attention of a wagon driver, who entered the car and released the three men.

The description of the robber is that of a man five feet eight and one-half inches tall and weighing about 160 pounds. He is about 35 years old, and has a high forehead. He wears a dark blue serge suit and striped brown slouch hat, which he kept pulled down over his eyes. He was very polite, soft of speech, and exhibited the refinement to be expected of a man of high education.

BRYAN ASSURES HIS FRIENDS OF PLANS

LINCOLN, Neb., Jan. 5.—W. J. Bryan, according to a letter received from him tonight by his brother, C. W. Bryan, had an intimation that his name might be filed as a presidential candidate, and it was to assure his Nebraska friends that under no circumstances would he be a candidate, that he wrote the letter. In his communication to his brother Mr. Bryan said he feared the effort to launch him as a candidate for the presidency might affect his candidacy for delegates to the national convention for which place, he said he is still an applicant but for nothing else.

A telegram sent by A. A. Alder to Mr. Bryan at Washington today, is as follows:

Have just filed you for president without your permission. I consider you the original progressive or course. Wilson La Follette and Roosevelt are good limitations but why a substitute? I firmly believe the people demand the original. The American people are just beginning to realize old parties are dominated by politicians for revenue only. Hence the awakening for the progressive movement throughout the country.

Politicians in Lincoln tonight claim to believe the filing of Mr. Bryan's name is the beginning of a well-matured plan to force him into the race but his political attitude here professes to believe there will be no difficulty in securing the withdrawal of the petition.

SON OF A MILLIONAIRE ADVERTISES CHEAP CIGAR

DENVER, Jan. 5.—Pinned to the back of J. C. Jergensen's overcoat, a big cardboard sign extolling the merits of a brand of five-cent cigars, caused considerable hilarity in the Brown Palace yesterday afternoon.

Jergensen, who is the son of a millionaire European watchmaker, circled casually about the lobby entirely unaware of the placard he was wearing. He was followed at a respectful distance by a group of his cronies, perpetrators of the stunt.

"Happy Jack" of Routt county, Harry Pring of Colorado Springs, A. J. Ward and "Wilson"—that's all of Denver were the jokers who so basely labeled Jergensen.

It is a shame to make a wooden Indian out of that chap and have him advertise bum cigars, said a guest of the hotel who edged toward Jergensen to "wise him up." The jokers spied the "butt in" and headed him off, however, and Jergensen did not find the placard until he removed his coat.

NOTED HOTEL OF CHICAGO BURNS

CHICAGO, Jan. 5.—The transient hotel at the Union stock yards for 49 years one of the most widely known hotels in the west, was reduced to ruins today in a fire which cost one life, and trapped many persons and for hours threatened the stock yards with a general conflagration.

So rapidly did the flames sweep through the five-story structure of brick and wood that guests were forced to the down fire escapes and in many instances, were dragged from the burning building by the men.

An unidentified negro porter was the sole victim.

The loss to the building and contents was estimated at $175,000 and neighboring buildings suffered damage of approximately $25,000.

The intense cold hampered the firemen as never before. Hydrants were frozen and for a time it was impossible for the fire fighters to send streams to the fifth floor, where the sleeping quarters of the employees are located.

The fire started in the kitchen and the crowded dining room soon was filled with smoke causing a stampede of guests, many of whom left their valuables behind them in their rooms, so eager were they to escape.

PROPOSED DENVER BALL ASSAILED BY MINISTERS

DENVER, Jan. 5.—That infinite blackguard, what can one say about him? He is too loathsome for comment. Personal views of a Denver priest, expressed when he was asked as to what he thought of the ball to be given by Alderman Thomas Hyder in the East Denver Turner hall on January 13.

There are people in the night world whose morality is just as good as that of the priest who accuses me and I can prove it. Reply of Alderman Hyder to the charges of the Denver minister and a priest.

The thirteenth annual ball of the Third Ward Democratic club, to be given Saturday night, January 13, at East Denver Turner hall, has stirred up a tempest and the reverberations are being heard at city hall, in the haunts of the fallen members of society and among the men of the cloth.

The ministers are denouncing it and Alderman Hyder, chief sponsor says it will be bigger and better than ever, now that the religious organizations have arrayed themselves against it.

The admission is free and Alderman Hyder pays the bills. He has invited many prominent people, but not any ministers. He promises that no laws will be violated and says he can't control a saloon which is in the building and not even on the same floor with the dance hall.

When the Third ward statesman woke up this morning and saw his annual affair assailed in paper language by ministers he sat back in his chair at the Lewis hotel and quoted copiously from the new testament to show them "Tom Hyder was doing more for mankind and womankind by giving the ball than the preachers were by long-winded sermons."

I am sure the Savior of men would hesitate to call anyone an "infidel" because he was acquainted with his works and his real character," said the alderman. The majority of some of the people in the night world is as good as the ministers who denounce me. I am the friend of the unfortunate and I have been for them always and not of them."

PLEADS EMERGENCY TO WED WITHOUT DELAY

QUINCY, Mass., Jan. 5.—Even a Massachusetts statute proved only a slight matrimonial obstacle in the matrimonial path of Clement L. Pelly of Seattle, Wash., who will leave here today, Feb. 1, to marry Miss Ida Mae Coffin of Billings, Mont. Miss Coffin has been living in this city recently and this week Mr. Pelly arrived. He wanted to get married quickly as he had to get back home on business, but on January 4 a law went into effect in Massachusetts, providing that five days must elapse between the application for and the granting of a marriage license. Mr. Pelly examined the law carefully and found a provision that in case of emergency a judge may issue a certificate allowing the immediate issuance of a license. Seeking a judge Mr. Pelly impressed him with the fact that here was an emergency and secured the license.

A GOOD PLACE TO HEAR NEWS

A man was very fond of music, and it annoyed him at the opera to see the inattention of the fashionable part of the audience.

One night a friend found him snoring at the club, and asked him where he'd been.

"I've been to the opera," he replied.

"What did you hear?" said his friend.

"Why—I heard," was the reply, "that the Van Vans are going to get a divorce, that young Knickerbocker-Smith has married a London actress and that the Hardups are gradually pawn-ing all their jewels."

Excellent Work Accomplished by Visiting Nurse Association

The annual meeting of the Visiting Nurse Association was held at the San Luis school at 1 o'clock last Wednesday afternoon.

All subscribers to the association as associate members, had been previously invited to be present. The association full encouraged at the interest shown at this meeting.

Mrs. Taylor spoke of the work of the association, saying, in part: "We aim not only to nurse the actually sick but also to educate these in the family so that they may take care of those to whom we minister; that we may give the sick and the other members of the family someone upon whom advice they may lean, who may share their responsibility, to whose visits they may look forward, and whose coming may give them some cheer."

Then Mrs. Taylor spoke of individual cases, giving reports of the work of the association, saying, in part: "We aim not only to nurse the actually sick but also to educate these in the family so that they may take care of those to whom we minister; that we may give the sick and the other members of the family someone upon whom advice they may lean, who may share their responsibility, to whose visits they may look forward, and whose coming may give them some cheer."

It will be difficult to estimate the cheer and education which our Miss Taylor is able to give to her tubercular patients, many of whom are lonely and discouraged, friendless, and too poor to obtain the proper conditions. Only as we learn to know more and more of the need will we feel that we are privileged to share in her high service.

The report of Mrs. Fletcher, the head nurse, was as follows:

Number of patients brought for treatment during year 1911 17
Number of new patients 186
Total number of patients attended during year 1911 203
Number of patients discharged 109
Number of deaths 78
Number remaining under care 95
Total number of visits for the year 2,325
Sent to hospitals for treatment 24

Mrs. Bonbright's Report:
In the absence of a superintendent of nurses, my report must have of a cover such points as would be incorporated in a superintendent's report, as well as state the various affairs of the nurse's committee.

The first of June, Miss Taylor, our nurse, went to Winthrop, and then returned for special training in social service and tubercular work. Mrs. Fletcher came to us as a substitute for six months, but when Miss Taylor decided to stay in the east, we asked Mrs. Fletcher to remain for the present. About this time Mrs. Fletcher, the work increased so markedly that we were glad to accept the offer so kindly made to us by Miss Standish of Bethel hospital, of the services of a pupil nurse. Miss Rogers ably filled this position for three months, then Miss Leasure took her place and in the fall, Miss Oliver, our present assistant, succeeded Miss Leasure. The splendid work that these nurses have done, under Mrs. Fletcher's supervision, speaks well for their training, and the tact and sympathy with which they approach their patients have been admirable. We have to thank them as well as Miss Standish for their wholehearted assistance.

Sister Rose of the Gloekner also offered a pupil nurse to us in the spring, and Sister Thompson first, we have had the services of a pupil nurse, Miss Brown, from that institution for a half of each day, and hope soon to be able to have this assistance for the whole day.

About September first, our nurses reported so much more work that they could properly do that the chairman of this committee was asked to provide a second graduate nurse, preferably one with executive experience, and a broad training in modern methods of nursing. After a long search, we secured the services of Miss Standish, New York City, who was engaged to come January 1, but has since had to change her date to February 1. The work, meanwhile, continued to increase, so when we heard that Miss Taylor had returned, we have hastened to procure her services.

More Nurses Needed.
Since it has become known that we have a special nurse for tubercular patients, that side of our work has multiplied and we now feel that to do justice to our patients and to continue the vitally important educational and preventive work which we have commenced, we should have in 1912 three graduate and three pupil nurses. With such a force we could continue to have one nurse and an assistant devoting all their time to tubercular patients; but of course this ambitious program cannot be adopted without larger funds at our disposal. No one without the actual experience can realize what a vast difference there is between a nurse's work in a home supplied with the usual conveniences and similar nursing in the scantily furnished rooms of the very poor, where even such simple requirements as clean linen, ordinary utensils and hot water are lacking; frequently our nurses must supply these deficiencies and improvise the necessary appliances.

Then let me say that the difficulty of getting about in this town is a great hindrance to our nurses, and diminishes the number of calls which it would otherwise be possible to make daily. From Roswell to Lyaveld, from North Hill to Colorado City, are distances which require much time to accomplish either in the car or on a wheel and many places are far from the car line.

Our visiting nurse was an absolute necessity in this community, though much useful work was being done. Today, after unceasing efforts to make ourselves known, not only to the ministers and doctors of the town, and such associations as would need our help, but to the people themselves, we are face to face with a totally different situation, namely: More work than can be properly done by our present staff of nurses. This increase of cases does not mean increase of illness in the town, but simply that last year many people went without our care and instruction. When we think what this means in connection with our tubercular work, we may be thankful indeed that we have been able to alleviate so much suffering, and in many cases prevent the spread of this terrible disease.

Excellent Work Cited.
We are now finding cases in the earlier stages of tubercular and providing through the different agencies in town for their betterment and often times cure; we are educating those who cannot be cured, in the safeguarding of their families and neighbors, and these things are anything but easy when one considers the lack of provision for the children of this town who are in any way afflicted, and the absence of institutions to which we could send many of our adult patients who ought not to be left in their homes, infecting the rest of the family. Notwithstanding our name of Visiting Nurse association, we feel that our greatest service to the people is our work of prevention and social service, and we trust that our friends will continue their support so that we may become more and more helpful along these lines as well as in our direct instruction to the sick.

Some of our dreams for the future include school nurses, a clinic with a nurse in attendance, and a special nurse devoted to the care of babies and the instruction of their mothers. I cannot close my report without calling attention to our desire for cooperation with all the agencies in this town toward the improvement of the condition of the poor and sick. We have always felt this to be important but as our work increases and develops we see more clearly the absolute need for such cooperation.

The subject of relief is such a large one, involved as it is with the essential principle of justice and equitable distribution of the obligation resting upon all of us to lend a helping hand to those of us who are in need through illness, adversity or ignorance. It is chiefly for this best service that we have to thank the Visiting Nurse Association for their ready help and sympathetic interest in many of our cases.

Quoted From Garfield.
Finally, to define the position in the community of the Visiting Nurse Association, let me quote from James B. Garfield's article on "The Civic Value of the Visiting Nurse."

One of the most important of the obligations of the Visiting Nurse is an admirable example of practical recognition of the obligation resting upon all of us to lend a helping hand to those of us who are in need through illness, adversity or ignorance. It is chiefly for this best service that we have to thank the Visiting Nurse Association for their ready help and sympathetic interest in many of our cases.

GERMAN EMPEROR PAYS A TRIBUTE TO DEAD ADMIRAL

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—President Taft, members of his cabinet, Admiral Dewey, practically every naval officer on duty in Washington and many prominent officials attended the funeral of Rear Admiral Robby D. Evans today. The observances were marked with full military honor. An unusual tribute was paid to the memory of Admiral Evans by Emperor William of Germany. As the special representative of the emperor, Commander Retzmann, the German naval attaché, attended the funeral and placed a wreath on the bier of the admiral who had been intimately known to the emperor.

Early in the day the body was transferred from the family home to All Souls Unitarian church, the casket being wrapped in a sea admiral's flag and the stars and stripes. The services were conducted by President Taft's pastor, Rev. L. G. K. Phillips. During the services, the famous Paul Revere bell, which rang out a warning to the minute men for the first battle of the Revolution was tolled.

After the ceremonies at the church eight petty officers from the United States Steamship Dolphin preceded by prominent naval and military pallbearers, bore the flower-laden casket to a gun salute. A military escort commanded by Rear Admiral Sidney A. Stanton and composed of the full brigade of midshipmen from the naval academy, two companies of bluejackets, four companies of marines and a battery of artillery made up the funeral procession to Arlington cemetery.

At the grave "pans" was sounded and a salute of 13 guns fired.

CALIFORNIA WOMEN MIX LUNCHEON AND POLITICS

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 5.—Millions of women and members of working women's unions will meet at a luncheon to be given here tomorrow by the San Francisco chapter of the California Civic League. The entire hall room of one of the city's largest hotels has been engaged and more than 100 women will attend. The luncheon was planned to launch various new propaganda in behalf of which an attempt will be made to enlist the women voters of the state. Addresses will be made by a number of prominent men and women. Rev. Dr. Charles F. Keeler of the First Congregational church of San Francisco will speak on "The Effect on European Women of Suffrage in California." Forbes Robertson will speak on "The Relation of the Modern Play to Freedom of Women."

Miss Helen Todd, formerly state factory inspector of Illinois, now secretary of the San Francisco civic center, is chairman of the committee of arrangements.

DR. BLUE NOMINATED FOR SURGEON GENERAL

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—President Taft will send to the senate Monday the nomination of Dr. Rupert Blue of South Carolina as surgeon general of the public health and marine hospital service, succeeding the late Dr. Walter Wyman.

Dr. Blue has been connected with the marine hospital service for years and is credited with driving the plague out of San Francisco.

In announcing the appointment of Dr. Blue, President Taft also gave notice that hereafter the term of service of the surgeon general of the public health service shall be limited to four years.

Formerly a surgeon general employed an unlimited tenure of office.

Dr. J. A. White of New Orleans, also a surgeon in the service, was a close competitor in the race, but Dr. Blue's work in San Francisco helped to decide the matter in his favor.

GIVE PERSONAL EFFECTS TO ASSIST MISSIONARIES

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Jan. 5.—Facing the possibility of the recall of foreign missionaries, women of the Southern Presbyterian church are sending their jewels and other valuable personal belongings to the foreign mission board of the denomination here to wipe out an indebtedness of $100,000 incurred by the board.

A committee is disposing of the gifts and forwarding the proceeds to missionaries whose salaries are overdue.

CHICAGO MOTORMEN ARE OBJECTING TO SMOKERS

CHICAGO, Jan. 5.—Complaining of "tobacco headaches," 5000 street car motormen in Chicago have petitioned Health Commissioner Young to assist them in obtaining legislation to prevent the practice of smoking on the front vestibules of street cars.

The health commissioner has promised his assistance. Much opposition is expected by the motormen and the city authorities, but both declare the fight should prevail, not only as a sanitary measure but as a kindness to the motorman who is compelled to spend 10 hours each day in the smoke-filled apartment.

The street car men say they are willing to submit their case to "fair-minded men." They hope to get the solid backing of the women citizenship of the city. They say that Chicago is the only great city in the world which permits smoking on closed street cars.

MUCH WORK DURING 1911 BY THE CITY ENGINEER'S OFFICE

City Engineer, T. L. Waggoner yesterday submitted his annual report to the city council, covering the more important features of work done by the engineering department during 1911. The report in part is as follows:

The year 1911 marked the completion of many public improvement projects. It is the work of this department to run levels and cross-sections, plat the same and prepare plans, details, specifications, estimates, and assessments for each of these districts.

Under the new public improvement ordinance, were created Paving and Improvement District Number One, Public Improvement District Number One, Wood Avenue Improvement District Number One and Storm Sewer District Number One. The two last named were completed during the year; the concrete work has been started in Paving and Improvement District Number One, and the preliminary work has been completed for Improvement District Number One. The bill for this district will probably be called for about March 15, 1912.

Over Seven Miles Sidewalk. Grades were set during the year for 3,583 linear feet, or 7.33 miles, of sidewalk, nearly all of which was constructed. Two contracts were let for the construction of sidewalk sidewalks; these were completed and the certificates turned over to the equity treasurer for collection. Three walk inspectors were employed during the summer months. There are at present 35 miles of sidewalk in the city.

Grades were set for 5,542 linear feet, or 10.5 miles, of curb and gutter. This is exclusive of the curb and gutter in Paving and Improvement District Number One and Wood Avenue Improvement District Number One. In the former, about 2,000 linear feet of curb and gutter was constructed, and in the latter, 4,380 linear feet.

The building permits for the year numbered 414, and represented a cash outlay of $536,311.

In connection with the work of public improvements, the city engineer's office was called upon to do a great deal of inspecting, this phase of its operations being covered in the report as follows:

Water and Sewer Work.
The department also reports much work inspecting the laying of water mains and sewer mains in connection with the general improvements going on under the direction of the department of public works and property, and among other items includes the following:

Street and alley levels—3,346 linear feet or 1.13 miles.

ROUTINE BUSINESS UP
J. W. E. Johnson and Horace Grubb were appointed regular patrolmen by Mayor Avery, at yesterday's meeting of the city council. The recommendations were made by Commissioner Himebaugh and approved by Chief Edgemo, both of whom believe two good officers have been added to the force, which is now up to its full quota.

Johnson formerly was a mounted officer, but left the city several months ago to live in California. He returned recently and he and Grubb had little difficulty in passing the civil service examinations, and setting on the eligible list. Grubb was appointed substitute patrolman several weeks ago. The resignations of C. E. Briney and J. H. White, early this week, left two vacancies, with Johnson and Grubb having first call for the positions.

Herbert Carroll was appointed a member of the fire department upon Commissioner Himebaugh's recommendation. The Pennell Lumber and Manufacturing company, successor to the Brown Lumber company, was awarded the city's lumber contract for the next three months. Practically no other business was transacted at yesterday's meeting.

Personal Mention
George Wyman has returned to this city after spending the holidays in Glenwood Springs.
Clarence M. Hawkins has returned from a combined pleasure and business trip to his old home in Tennessee and other southern points.
E. E. Mahoney left recently for Cambridge, O., called there by the serious illness of his father, who was formerly a resident of this city.

CIVIC BEAUTY EXPERT TO COME HERE AGAIN SHORTLY

Charles Mulford Robinson, New York civic beauty expert, expects to pay another visit to Colorado Springs this spring to suggest plans and outline his ideas of beautifying this city. Some time ago the expert was brought here by the Good Roads association and the city council, and outlined in detail his plans to improve streets and parks. Upon the occasion of his next visit he will give the department of public works and property his ideas on street paving, oiling and parking. It is probable, too, his recommendations will include a site and general plans for a proposed union station. The date of his arrival is not known.

SPRINGS INTERESTED IN PROBABLE VISIT

Henry S. Graves, chief of the United States forest service, may go to Denver early in February to attend a meeting of forest supervisors of this district and in this case Colorado Springs citizens probably will want to meet him with regard to the grant of land on the north slope of Pike's Peak requested from the government.

Henry C. Hall was chairman of the springs delegation, which waited upon President Taft during his visit in Denver October 3, and the same committee probably will see Graves if he attends the foresters' meeting in that city next month.

The principal opposition to the granting of part of the Pike forest reserve to Colorado Springs comes from the forest service, and if representatives from this city can win Graves over to their way of thinking, the bill to be submitted to congress and providing for the land grant is practically assured of passage.

The forest supervisors' meeting in Denver will be called by District Forester South Riley, who has been in this city frequently. Among the problems to be discussed will be proposed methods of disposing temporarily of large tracts of lands in the national forests which are not open to settlement, but which are suitable for the use of stock during the grazing season. It is the policy of the department, according to Forester Riley to give the utmost publicity to the existence of these tracts in order that the stockmen may take advantage of them.

PRAYER WEEK ON WLSI SIDE BEGINS TOMORROW

Churches of the west side will hold a week of prayer, beginning tomorrow. Following is a list of topics for the week, which have been suggested by the Evangelical Alliance of the United States:

"The Kingdom of God's Advance"; "Personal Faithfulness"; "The Church of Christ"; "Foreign Missions"; "Home Missions"; "Interests Domestic and Educational"; "The Home and School"; "Interests National and International"; "The Supreme Desirableness of the Kingdom's Triumph."

Speakers will be the Rev. J. V. Ewart, pastor of the Second Presbyterian church; the Rev. R. R. Adams, pastor of the Asbury Methodist church; the Rev. D. G. Montfort, pastor of Emmanuel Presbyterian church; and others not definitely named. All meetings will be held in the Asbury Methodist church. Good music has been secured for the occasion.

Unusual Provisions in Will of Late Levi Bell

Unusual provisions are contained in the will of the late Levi Bell, formerly a resident of Colorado Springs, which was filed for probate a few days ago at Norristown, Pa. Mr. Bell died in Denver, December 24.

There are five children and, according to the provisions of the will, each will receive $10,000, and the remainder of the estate is to be held in trust by a Minneapolis bank until the youngest child is 20 years old. At that time that portion of the estate held in trust is to be divided equally, half of it to be held in trust by the bank until the youngest child is 40 years old. Then, the will provides, there is to be an equal division of the estate among the children. The will contained no other bequests. Before removing to Denver Mr. Bell was a resident of Broadmoor and Norristown, Pa. His business interests being largely with the flour-exporting firm of Samuel Bell & Sons, Philadelphia, and the Washburn-Crosby company, Minneapolis. Mrs. Charles L. Newcomb, Jr., of Denver, is the second oldest of the five children. Two of the sons, James S. and Samuel Bell of Minneapolis and Philadelphia, respectively, are executors of the will.

POSTAL DEPOSITS NOW
TOTAL ABOUT $18,000

December proved to be the banner month in the Colorado City postal savings bank. According to the reports just issued by Postmaster Morgan, the deposits for the month were $2,211 and the withdrawals $871. The total deposits up to date are about $18,000 and the total withdrawals $2,750. Two hundred and sixty-three people have opened accounts in the bank and 1,023 of these have made at least one deposit.

I suppose you have often heard the story of the mill closing and throwing some one out of employment. It is a sad story, but it is a story that is being repeated in Colorado City. The National bank here had the same experience. I am more than pleased with the way the people in patronizing the postal savings bank. It seemed doubtful at a while whether we were going to have any business, but now most of the people understand and everything there is to be done about it and they are taking advantage of the institution. For a town of this size I think we are doing pretty well.

Desirous of creating the impression that they, too, are carlot buyers, frequently advertise a carload of some commodity, when their purchase really amounts to less than 1-5 of a carload.

The traffic manager of the Central London railway is quoted as saying: "There is no doubt that these moving stairways are far better than lifts for tubular work and no new tubes station will be constructed without them."

There are important fundamental questions of political faith on which people of advanced belief can easily get together and unite in opposition to the reactionary forces of both parties, without incurring the dangers of dissension by quarreling over such minor matters as what candidate for the presidency shall be endorsed a year in advance of the election.

We believe that if there were an opportunity for the Republicans of Colorado to register a vote as to their choice between the old machine leaders and the men who are at the head of the Progressive movement, an overwhelming majority would express their preference for the latter. With this invaluable asset of public confidence in their possession, why should these men risk disaster by turning their attention to relatively unimportant details? Let the Progressives, in their forthcoming conference, adopt a platform on which all voters who believe in the essentials of Progressivism can stand, and thereby they will become a potent influence in the Republican party of Colorado.

INCONSEQUENT

THE EVENING TELEGRAPH we believe that is the name; the sheet changes its appellation so often that it is hard to remember just which one is correct; at any rate, the evening paper in this town thinks that The Gazette's opposition to Mr. Taft's renomination is "a fine illustration of unthinking, inconsequential, stubborn grouch."

Why? The Gazette has repeatedly stated the reasons for its position. In common with most other papers throughout the country, irrespective of political faith, it has cited his various acts, official and unofficial, and the temperamental weaknesses which reveal his unfitness to retain for another term the office he now holds. His lamentable failure to make good the platform pledges of 1908, for which he stumped the country, as exemplified particularly by his complicity in the Payne-Aldrich tariff enactment; his open alliance with such men as Aldrich, Cannon, etc., who are commonly regarded, and with good reason, as unworthy of public confidence; his second failure, in the recent extra session, to obtain relief for the country from tariff impositions; his long-continued protection of Ballinger, ending only when that ally of special interests was forced by public disapproval to resign, and ending then with a letter of commendation so extravagant in its terms that it was absolutely puerile; the lamentable incapacity shown by the readiness with which he accepted the advice of interested counsellors—these are some of the evidences of Mr. Taft's unfitness for the presidency on which The Gazette's contentions have been based.

In reply The Telegraph merely asserts that Mr. Taft is the titular leader of the Republican party by virtue of his office, and as such must be obeyed, followed, revered.

Now who is the real "unthinking, inconsequential, stubborn grouch?"

OPEN PARLIAMENT

MONEY FOR ROAD-BUILDING.

To the Editor of The Gazette:

Why all this fuss about a city, a road, from the east, and the state, and why not build good roads to all Colorado cities from every direction? Why not give these people who are hungry for work and starting for food a chance to talk a living? Some have killed themselves because they could find no work and rather die than beg. Others have offered themselves as slaves for life to anybody who will give them a living during the rest of their life. Others have been arrested for stealing bread for their families, and should be honored for it rather than sent to prison. There are roads which should be built and which would give work to every man who wants it. There is plenty of money, too; the banks are full of it, idle cash, earning little for anybody. Over fifty millions of it lying in Colorado banks alone. A very small tax levied against those millions would build many good roads and give many a poor family a living. It is long time and the money would not find its way back to the banks in time and would have done some good while it was working. There seems to be little else at present to use money for; there are no investments worth considering; there are few borrowers for large amounts; no railroad building; nothing to call out this money; no wonder things are hard. Can't something be started to put this vast amount of idle cash into circulation?

MUSIC AND HOME INDUSTRY.

To the Editor of The Gazette:

In "Open Parliament" and in other parts of your paper, I have noticed from time to time, protests from various labor bodies, merchants and people in other lines of activity, against the purchasing of goods out of town, the hiring of foreign labor, etc. The sentiment which actuates these protests, is, I think, general throughout the country. In the smaller towns, especially those which are near a larger market, and is vitiated by the expression, "Patronize Home Industry." Still, while enlightened self-interest would lead us all to patronize home institutions, there are many things which seem to be much cheaper or better in the larger centers of trade.

But if there is one thing in which Colorado Springs is emphatically not "small town" it is in the musical field. Because of its regular position as a tourist and health resort, a health resort for the very class of diseases which most commonly afflict musicians—for years this place has been a center for the best in musical talent, and visitors from over the world have been uniformly enthusiastic over the quality of music furnished at the various parks, hotels and amusement places.

Hence, it rather came as a surprise when I learned that music for the coming Charity ball had been secured in Denver.

Why this should have been done seems somewhat of a mystery. The people of this town, who are who they are, who are responsible for it, to my mind, have written themselves as ignorant in matters musical as well as of the fact that charity is supposed to "begin at home." I think the are of the class who can see no good in their own environment, one of whom, it is said, when his attention was called to the splendor of the moonlight shining on Pike's Peak last evening—than which Italy or Switzerland shows no purer beauty, remarked, in a disparaging tone, "Yes, rather good for a small town like this."

MEAT AT CHEAPER RATES.

From the Philadelphia Inquirer.

It is rather interesting, the comment made by the counsel for the Armour company upon the refusal of the British government to allow beef trust meat, to be used by the army and navy. Says the lawyer: "Great Britain's action cut off our largest market for canned meats, which amounted to millions of pounds annually. There is thus lost a market for these products which cannot be made up in any way. There is no demand in this country which will equalize the loss of the companies affected. The loss seems greater for the reason that every pound of canned meat represents two pounds of fresh meat."

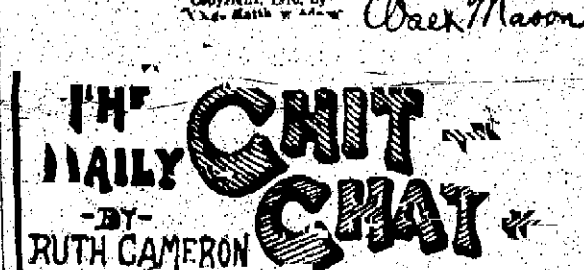

No demand? Why, how can that be? Haven't the beef trust been raising the prices of meats at will, and hasn't it continually declared that the reason for so doing was the scarcity of cattle?

These beef manipulators need not worry about the demand. It is here all right. All that is required is a market price for meat that is within touch of the pocketbook. True, trust has been selling even fresh meat in England cheaper than it has here. Suppose, now that it has lost much of its English market, that it try a little fair and square dealing with the American people and see what will happen.

I harnessed up my old bay plug, and said: "He beats a motor car; you do not hear him go 'chug-chug' or scatter noises near and far. I have no use for a machine that's louder than a thunderstorm, and uses up raw gasoline, which is but SAFETY death in fluid form. My horse will gently haul his load and bring me safely to my home! I have no fear that he'll explode and with his fragments strew the dome. He'll calmly bear his little yoke and spring a gentle horse's smile, and not produce a lot of smoke that you can smell for half a mile. My good old Dobbin I can trust, he'll take the road till he'll expire, and not an engine will be hurt, or come home with a ruined tire. I climbed into my ancient shay to take a drive to other scenes; old Dobbin bucked and whaled away and kicked the rig to smithereens."

"The mind is its own place, and in itself Can make a Heaven of Hell, a Hell of Heaven."

Doubtless, you have heard many times, both from other folks' pens and mine, the essential philosophy of the above.

It's the point of view that we take of our circumstances, and not the circumstances themselves, that does most to make us happy or unhappy, dissatisfied or contented. You have probably been told that again and again, and having common sense and reason of your own, know it anyway.

But let me, or rather, one of my letter-friends—present this same philosophy in a more original, never and more concise form. I think it will interest and amuse you, as it did me.

"My sister and I," writes this friend, "are rather inactive, and when we have nothing else to do, we build the most wondrously original castles. Sometimes we merely draw exaggerated word pictures of little happenings. One afternoon after work we walked home, stopped on our way out for a chat with our married sister, and when we got home found that the rest of the family had finished supper. We ate ours and repaired to the porch. I plumped down in the hammock and Jane on the porch settee, piled high with pillows. She drew a pathetic picture of the walk up, describing the two poor stenographers (telling weary tales after a hard day's work—the tall, thin, angular, gray-haired one (my hair is gray, but prematurely so) with a 'half-soldier' white skirt that had seen better days, and a white waist that she had spent many weary hours unbrooding the short, congested, long-looking younger sister in a similar costume. She told how they dragged their weary footstools to their married sister's flat, where they could smell the supper cooking for her husband when he returned from his day's labor, and after talking for a while proceeded on their journey home. They sat down to the table and partook of a frugal supper of bread and preserves, a bit of lettuce and some lukewarm tea, and then dragging their weary feet to the porch, throw themselves down in utter exhaustion."

You must admit this tale of two sounds heart-rending.

"Then I said: 'Now listen while I draw the other side of the picture. The two sisters, after leaving their offices, one in a bank, the other in a mercantile office, strolled up town. In the late afternoon, stopping en route for a treat of the ice cream parlor. The older sister, tall and slender, with a mass of flaxen hair, was dressed in a dainty, well-fitting linen skirt and hand-embroidered lingerie waist. The younger one, a short, attractive blonde, was similarly dressed. As the two sisters walked they discussed intelligently Gilbert Hubbard, Charles Lamb, and Robert Louis Stevenson. En route they stopped for a moment's chat with their married sister, who sang them an aria from one of the operas, while she awaited her husband's homecoming, in anticipation of which she had prepared a dainty supper. Upon their arrival at their own home, they sat down to a tempting supper of lettuce with mayonnaise, preserved peaches and oranges, and lukewarm tea at all. The polished table was bare with a drawn-out luncheon square, and bowl of roses, and the china was of dainty gold and white design."

"After supper they repaired to the wide veranda with the four chairs, swings, and rustic sofa, and chairs piled with soft pillows, and while one settled herself comfortably in the hammock, with a couple of feather pillows under her head, the other, piled the settee high with pillows and curled herself up for a happy evening."

"When finished we both laughed—the pictures were so completely different, yet both were correct in the essentials. I told Jane it only shows what a point of view can do, and she admitted that she was feeling quite sorry for herself when she finished her narrative and that mine cheered her up so that she felt quite happy."

Now, all of us, our thoughts are all the time unconsciously making word pictures of everything that happens to us.

I wonder, which kind of word picture you have the mental habit of making—the kind that makes you feel for yourself, or the other kind?

The schooner William Northrop, formerly a pilot boat of Charlestown, South Carolina, was brought into New York under charge of Prize-Master Rhoades, of the U. S. S. S. Fernandez. She was captured by the Fernandez when attempting to run the blockade into Wilmington. She was laden with coffee and other medicine, from Nassau and Havana.

The Richmond Dispatch reported satisfactory progress in the erection of defensive works about the city and the organization of the inhabitants into a body to be trained and made ready for garrison duty.

Maj. Gen. George B. Crittenden, commanding the Confederate forces in southeastern Kentucky, issued an order dated at Mill Springs urging all citizens of Kentucky who had not yet taken up arms to join the Confederate forces immediately, obligating them by the obligations of interest, honor and duty to assist in repelling the invaders. He affirmed that the object of the war on the part of the north was the "extinction of slavery and the subjugation of the south."

John Letcher, governor of Virginia, sent a message to the Virginia house of delegates urging them to reaffirm that "the separation of the Confederate states from the United States is, and ought to be, final and irrevocable."

The second execution in the National army of the republic took place at Washington. D. C. Michael Lananah was hanged for the murder of Sergeant Brenner, both of Company A, 62nd regiment, U. S. A.

Capt. George C. S. A. was arrested by Colonel Howell of the Eighty-fifth Pennsylvania, while on a visit to his old home in Maryland, 20 miles below Washington.

The Hats of Mrs. Jinks

By JAMES RAVENSCROFT.

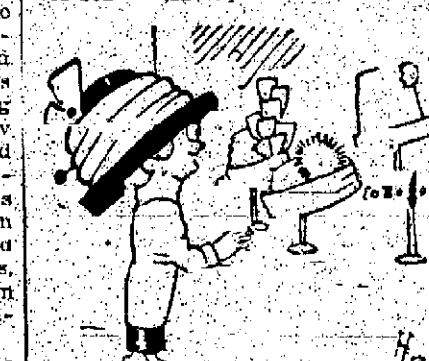

When young Jinks up and spoke his mind, Said her old grumpy dad: "Can you support her in the kind of hats she's always had?" Jinks with suspense was almost wild, and quickly answered, "Yes, sir, I can. A grumpy smile her old man smiled. And said, 'She's yours, I guess.'"

But ere two wedded years were gone Young Jinks was quite aware That he had blindly taken on A costly load to bear. For she liked hats 'way up in price And bought such hats galore; And when she'd worn them once or twice, She'd go and buy some more.

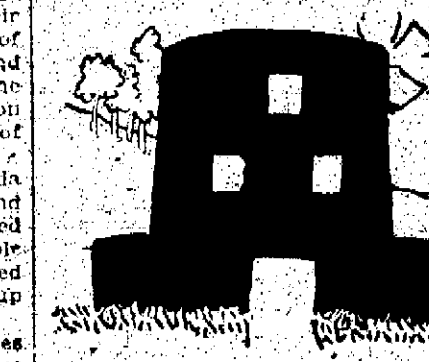

But when last week his wife picked him up, A radiant-eyed bright, The erstwhile patient hubby kicked And took an upward flight. Said he, in a sarcastic strain: "I don't deny it's swell. But how about an aeroplane? Won't that do just as well?"

"You, my millinery knave, Could trim it up to suit With bows and fruit and brie-abrac. And it would be a beaut. Or you could wear it plain, you see. A sailor hat effect. As such a sky-piece it would be. A stunner, I expect."

"I think my pay is ample proof. It's more than I can do. To keep above your head a roof And hate you ever too. Expenses I have but and cut; I never spend a red. A mortgage on the house I've put To put hats on your head."

"I don't know what will happen when My creditors foreclose. Well, sure be up against it then; Therefore, I now propose. That you be good and let me take One of your hats—for, oh, When we are homeless it will make A daisy bungalow."

Use Your Aunt Well

(Copyrighted, 1912, by Laura Jean Libbey.)

There are aunts who are a joy and a blessing to the household which they adorn. Other aunts there are, however, whose lives are not cast in such smooth waters. Mercenary families are few and far between. But where is the well-to-do household who have a family of grown daughters to maintain who will refuse a wealthy spinster aunt a place in their home? Indeed, they are wont to beseege her with earnest entreaties to make her home with them. They write her that she will confer a favor upon them by coming and accepting their best room, by having the best seat at the table, and so on.

Her aunt is fully dragged to their home. Each member of the family vies with the other to shower kindness upon her. If the girls have company aunts is invited down into the parlor, too. The choicest viands are heaped upon her plate at the table. She is escorted to her room at night by all her nieces. One puts the knitted slippers she made with her own hands upon aunts feet. Another looks under the bed while another is crouching there is no bold bad man crouching to frighten her. Another insists that the heater lest it prove too warm for her comfort. Another tempers the draft from the window lest it blow in too cold upon her. All four tuck the downy, silken quilts about her. Each voices the request of the other to be sure to call them if she wants anything during the night.

Great is their lament when she announces that she's going to take a trip. They do not dare to ask her business or the why or wherefore. They go to the steamer with her, fairly loading her stateroom with flowers. They hope she will come back soon to them, they add, as they sob "good-bye" on her neck. There is a merry little war between the girls, while on their way homeward as to which she favors the most.

They estimate how much wealth she will be sure to leave the one she likes best. A week later they receive a letter from another aunt of whose existence they barely knew. "I am poor and old," she writes. "I hope you will find a corner in your charity for me. If not I must go to the poorhouse."

There is intense excitement in that household. "She might better go to the poorhouse," declared the eldest daughter. "Think of the disgrace!" exclaimed the second.

The arrival of the bone of contention stopped all further argument. With a fortnight of indifferent treatment she was ready to take her leave again, going as she came, unregretted. A few terse lines received from her made a big commotion in the family. "I feel," it ran, "my wealthy aunt. The one who just left was my dependent cousin, who reported your graciousness to her. I came to select an heiress, but failed to find one. I leave you my advice as a legacy: 'One should always use one's aunt well.'"

HE GOT SO ANGRY!

"Dear Miss Libbey: I have been keeping company with a young man for the last six months. He has treated me royally until of late. He says he loves me dearly, but dislikes my name, which is an Indian name. He asked me to change it, but I refused, and this made him angry. To be spiteful, when in a crowd of young folks he calls me his Indian baby, etc. I have asked him kindly to discontinue it, but he does not do so. Will you please tell me how to break him of such a habit? Do you think he can really love me and dislike my name?"

Yes, I think maybe he does. He likes to see you a bit. I think—better laugh it off.

SHALL HE MARRY?

"Dear Miss Libbey: I am 30 and am in love with a young woman two years my senior. I should like you to advise me whether or not to get married next fall. I am only making $11 a week at present, but I have a position there is a future to. This young woman loves me and I love her. I have never mentioned getting married to her yet. We have been going together steadily for almost two years."

Yes, I think you had better ask her to marry you. With economy you could manage on $11 a week.

COMMISSION CLAMPS LID ON TICKET SCALPING ROW

Finds Wholesale Scalping Took Place in World's Series, but That Club Owners Were Innocent

CINCINNATI, Jan. 5.—The National Baseball commission here today finally clamped the lid on the ticket scalping scandal that grew out of the world's championship in New York and Philadelphia last October.

While the commission gathered enough evidence to assure it that wholesale ticket scalping took place in both towns, yet this evidence indicated that neither the New York National or Philadelphia American owners, managers, players or employees were in collusion with the scalpers.

The commission holds that the charges of the press at the time were justified, but generally scores a number of persons who at the time of the episode offered to produce proof as to the alleged collusion, but failed. The commission praises both clubs for the extra precautions that were taken against scalping. State and municipal legislation against scalping is urged. The finding continues in part:

"It is evident that it was the aim of both clubs to provide adequately for their respective regular patrons. In Philadelphia the total number of reserves sold for the first day was $1,938. Of this number the club itself distributed 8,131 tickets among 23 persons, consisting of club officials, public officials, newspapers, players and miscellaneous persons, the names of all of these persons having been furnished the commission.

"It must be apparent, therefore, that whatever tickets actually found their way into the hands of scalpers was through methods best known to those engaged in the business of scalping in tickets, and in small numbers in each lot and for which neither the club owners, their officials or employees were responsible.

"The commission then tells in detail how in New York the tickets for the first game were disposed of, and says:

"It is also the contention of the New York club that tickets secured by scalpers through mail orders and at the public sale were without doubt very large in number. They base this contention upon the fact that they received a great many letters for mail orders which looked suspicious, declaring, however, that such suspicious letters were thrown into the discard.

They also contend that suspicious individuals were put out of the line at the public sale, and yet in spite of all care and precaution the club officials admit that the scalpers obtained tickets.

"It must be evident that these tickets could not have been secured by the scalpers in any great numbers through the mail order system, because it is shown by the New York club's own statement that only 4,374 tickets were sent out through the mails.

"Members of the commission were, beyond question, justified in the expectation as individuals that a thorough investigation would establish collusion between scalpers and one or more employees of the New York club, for these reasons:

"Two days in advance of the public sale of tickets to the Polo grounds, every newspaper of prominence in New York ran the advertisements of every well-known ticket scalper of that city that chose seats for the world's series games would be on sale at his place of business.

"The publication of the advertisements referred to carried with it promises to patrons which none without exceptional facilities for securing tickets would redeem.

"It is the contention of the New York club that mail orders for the series were deposited in the various substations of the postoffice Tuesday evening, October 10, in time for a night distribution in some districts and practically a complete distribution in the city on Wednesday, October 11, and that scalpers with tickets were thus enabled to offer tickets a day before the public sale opened in the St. James building, but attention is again called to the fact that only a limited number of tickets were sent out through mail orders.

"It is our judgment that the granting of permission to sell tickets for three days was a serious mistake of the commission, as well as that of permitting the club to conduct its own sale, and it is the duty of the commission to take every necessary step that they can to prevent a recurrence of the conditions existing during the last world's series.

AD UP AGAIN; WANTS TO MEET RIVERS OR PACKEY

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 5.—Ad Wolgast, lightweight champion pugilist, is recovering rapidly from his threatened attack of pneumonia and for a time today walked around the sun parlor at his Venice cottage.

Wolgast declared he would take the least of care of himself, in the hope that he might be able again to enter the prize ring by July 4.

The champion had no particular favorite for his first opponent but said he would like to take on Joe Rivers, the local Mexican featherweight, if the latter persisted in his challenge. Next, Wolgast said, Freddie Welsh looked good, and so did Packey McFarland.

"I will show McFarland to weigh 134 six weeks before the fight," said Wolgast. "If I can only induce him to get into a ring with me. But I guess there is no chance."

CORBETT DEPLORES LACK OF GOOD MEN

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 5.—Jim Corbett, former champion of the world, like Bob Fitzsimmons, Tommy Ryan and the other great pugilists of a decade ago, deplores the decadence of the boxing game as evidenced by the absence of real skill in the reports of so many so-called high-class fighters of the present day.

Corbett's talk along those lines with Billy Kelly, who doubtless be read with interest by local lovers of the sport.

"If a boxer crouches low and covers up his face, at the same time boring continually into clinches, the referee should step between the men and stop the bout," said Corbett.

"Glove contests will always interest me," continued the former heavyweight champion, "because fighting is a manly sport and develops our boys into courageous men. A scientific contest between well-trained, physically capable athletes provides thrilling excitement and nobody enjoys it more than your true fan. But these hugging matches are intolerable. I steer clear of them because they bore me. This habit of crouching and hiding behind one's forearms and elbows is all wrong which the Queensberry rules call for. Furthermore, it isn't pleasing to the eye. Why the average fighter doesn't seem to have nerve enough to take a wallop on the jaw, but moves about all covered up, working his head like a tortoise. No man can display clear boxing science that way. He can't expect to deliver a blow except in half clinches. That makes the other fellow fight the same way, and the scrap as a rule becomes a rough house wrestling match.

"Unless clubs and referees put a stop to these methods, scientific boxing will become a dead letter. Quick thinking, rapid dealing, swift footwork, accurate punching at long and short range, blocking, ducking, sidestepping, shifting and dodging will be lost sight of. What will glove fighting amount to then? Nothing more than brawls which you can see in almost any tough barroom. That kind of stuff isn't manly and it isn't clever, and no real lover of boxing cares to pay $5 or $10 to see it. I know that I wouldn't cross the street to see Cyclone Johnny Thompson.

"The referee can stop this absurd business. So can the promoters. How? Why, let referees warn the crouchers and the buggers that if they don't stand up and fight they will be ruled off."

BARNES ALLOWS ONE HIT; HOLY NAME WINS, 15-5

The Robbins indoor baseball team experienced its first defeat of the season, when it was beaten 15 to 5 by the Holy Name nine, at the T. M. C. A. last night.

Barnes easily had all the advantage in the pitching department and a deceptive drop, mixed up with a raise ball, let the Robbins team down with but one hit during the game. Barnes struck out 21 and walked seven, while Huber, for the Robbins team, whiffed 12 and passed four.

The Robbins players went to pieces in the second inning, and in this period the Holy Names hammered in seven runs. The winners were never headed after that, and with Barnes pitching top-notch ball, there was little doubt as to the outcome. Sixteen hits, coupled with errors and bases on balls, netted the Holy Name team 15 runs in the hour and a half of indoor pastime. Score:

ENGLISH HEAVY MAY MELT SOME "HOPES"

NEW YORK, Jan. 5.—The arrival of George McDonald, manager of Matt Wells, who returned to this country on the Olympic, gives a fresh turn to the already complicated heavyweight situation. McDonald, besides looking after the interests of Matt Wells, is empowered to arrange matches for Bombardeur Wells, whose engagement to fight Jack Johnson in England gave the sport there a black eye. Whether McDonald selects Carl Morris of Palmer, who knocked out Kaufman a few nights ago, for the Englishman's first encounter there is sure to be considerable interest in the bout.

In his fight with Kennedy Morris showed so much improvement that his friends feel justified in pitting him against the Englishman. Billy Newsum and his aids have certainly worked wonders with the Oklahoma giant since he began his education as a real fighter at the New Polo A. A. For the first few minutes of the fight with Kennedy it looked as if Morris had the skill necessary to make a real champion. His initial rush drove Kennedy to the ropes, where the engineer landed left and right with lightning rapidity. For the moment the fact that there was no snap behind Morris' blows was overlooked and Kennedy was a beaten man from the moment of that first rush.

As the battle progressed Morris seemed to forget the science that had evidently been drilled into him and contented himself with smothering his rival, landing half arm blows, many of which would have put Kennedy out with the proper impetus behind them. His rushes were spasmodical and he lacked the aggressiveness and determination to put his man away that is essential in a real champion. A few more battles may develop these characteristics and then the Oklahoma man may become a real menace to the colored champion. It is a safe assertion that at present either Sam Langford or Joe Jeannette could dispose of McDonald.

KLING IS NEW PILOT, SUCCEEDING TENNEY

KANSAS CITY, Jan. 5.—Johnny Kling tonight received a telegram from the management of the Boston National league team announcing his appointment as manager of the Boston team, to succeed Fred Tenney.

Kling said while the salary question had not been decided definitely, it was probable he would get $9,000 for his next season's work.

Kling went to Boston June 10, last, from the Chicago Nationals in a trade, regarded as the largest ever made in baseball. The Chicago club traded Pitchers Griffin and Weaver, Outfielder Kaiser and Catcher Kling for Pitcher Curtis, Catcher Graham and Outfielders Goode and Collins.

leaving Jack Johnson out of the question.

From the accounts of Bombardeur Wells, doing in the ring he is a fighter of much the same caliber as Morris, though he is credited with having more power behind his punches than the Sappulpa man has yet shown. A meeting between the two would certainly attract a tremendous crowd, as the international favor will add to the great public interest evinced in all the recent heavyweight battles. By the way, Kennedy received more for fighting a losing battle than Morris did for winning.

THE BIG ELEVENS MADE FIRST DOWN BUT 27 TIMES

Records of Princeton, Harvard and Yale Show That Defense Is Out of Proportion to Offense

There seems to be a definite feeling in the eastern football world that the rules need a thoroughly overhauling and revision before the coming of another season. The football solons agree that changes are necessary, but each of them has his own pet plan for the betterment of the game, and it is rarely that all two of them agree. There are certain generalities, however, in which they all concur. Plays occurred during the season just passed which were not specifically covered by the code. Other happenings brought to light the fact that certain obsolete rules had never been stricken from the book. These are minor matters, which can easily be adjusted.

The main subject of contention lies in the fact that the defense under the present system seems out of proportion to the offense. Princeton, generally considered the champion of the gridiron world, made one first down by rushing against Harvard and none against Yale. Harvard made six first downs against Princeton and five against the Blue. Yale made five first downs against Harvard and four against the Tigers. That is to say, that the three biggest elevens of past years made a total of 27 first downs by rushing in three games, or a dual average of seven to a game—an individual record of three and one-half first downs apiece. Some persons call attention to the fact that a few years ago a gain of 10 yards through the line by plunging back on a single play was no uncommon thing. This is true, but at that time there was no rule against assisting a runner and a man was pushed or hauled along for yards after he was tackled.

The only play which now seems to promise a 10-yard gain is the forward pass, and against a team of equal strength this is hardly effective. Coaches have taught their teams to block it, and this is made easier by the restrictions under which a legal pass must be made. Princeton did not attempt this play in either of its big games. Harvard tried it nine times at Nassau for a total gain of 28 yards, and six times against Yale, for a total of 27 yards. The Blue tried it twice against Princeton and four times against Harvard, without a yard of gain. The Crimson was, therefore, the only eleven to gain ground in these games by means of the play, and it gained an average of slightly over four yards per pass.

The Brown team developed the forward pass to about its highest point of efficiency, and yet they could do but little with it against the stronger teams. Brown beat Yale last year by using the forward pass, but this year the play was broken up three-fourths of the time by Yale and Harvard. Brown defeated the demoralized Pennsylvania eleven this season by forward passes, but that was the last game in which the play worked.

Even the drop or place kick is useless as a scoring asset unless a team can get within striking distance of an opponent's goal, and this seems only to be possible under the present rules by recovering a fumbled ball. Strange enough, the new game appears to have developed no kickers of the caliber of an O'Dea, a Butterworth or a Brooke.

The question that the rules committee will have to decide is how to more nearly equalize the defense and offense. Some men are in favor of allowing a team four downs instead of three; some believe all restrictions should be removed from the forward pass; some favor a fifth period of play; some think the distance to be gained should be reduced to seven yards; some wish it put back to five, and some advocate allowing the side in possession of the ball to assist the runner. These latter suggestions would mean, of course, practically returning to the old game. One argument used against this plan is that while two college players were killed this year, four were killed in 1910 and 10 in 1900.

BROWN SAYS HE WILL NOT PLAY THIS YEAR

CHICAGO, Jan. 5.—In a statement last night Mordcael Brown, for the last seven years one of the best pitchers in the National league, declared positively that he would not don a Cub uniform this season. The three-fingered marvel sets at rest all the varying reports that he was a holdout or that he expected to figure in the proposed new league by a plain presentation of his case. He insists that he is through with baseball.

Concerning himself, the Cub star said: "I don't expect to pitch another game, for the Cubs or any other team, but intend to go into business here and devote all my time to it. This is no 'holdout' or 'holdup' game on my part, and I do not think the club will be willing to offer me a new contract for as much as I believe I can earn. I feel that I have given the club value received for every dollar ever paid me. So I don't owe Mr. Murphy or baseball a cent. I don't want to owe anything, either."

"I'm not looking for any consideration from the club for what I have done in the past, and do not feel like giving the club any consideration for what it has done for me. It is simply a business proposition with me, and I would rather quit the game than have the game quit me. No pension for me. This proposition looks good, and I continued in baseball until I was turned loose. I probably would not have the chance now offered me."

Tearfully last night added nothing to what he already had said regarding the offer to stake the Cub star to a good business opening. He said he had not had a minute's opportunity to talk business with Brown since his return, and refused to forecast the outcome of their deal.

Regarding the outlaw situation on the coast, Brown said he knew little about it, conveying the impression that no offer had been made to him, out there that appealed to him particularly. Brown lamented about the proposed "third league" and its invasion of Chicago, and wanted to know if he had been signed to manage the north side team yet.

Asked what chance there was for Overall to return to the Cubs, Brown said he thought there was no chance at all of it. Overall now is assistant superintendent of the mine at Angel's Camp, in which Brown also has put considerable money, and it was the latter's opinion that Big Jeff could make much more by sticking to the mine and pitching a game or so a week for some of the independent California clubs than he could by returning permanently to baseball.

With President Murphy of the Cubs in Panama, Teaney has the field to himself. The result depends on whether or not Brown is ready to quit baseball, as nearly as can be ascertained, and the decision is for him to make.

It is common gossip in American league circles that the only reason Wood of the Red Sox was not one of the sensations of last season was that this twirler did not always have a profound regard for the training rules.

TRAINING TRIP DOES TY COBB LITTLE GOOD

DETROIT, Jan. 5.—Training trips are useless for the baseball player who takes care of himself.

No less an authority than Tyrus Cobb made this declaration when in Detroit last week. When Cobb announced that he would terminate his theatrical contract in three weeks it was expected he would accompany the Tigers on the southern trip. Ty, however, declared a week's preparation would put him in playing condition.

"I take care of myself the year round. I do not indulge in excesses, nor do I overwork myself, so why should I go on a training trip?" was Ty's question and answer. "A training trip is a grind, all ball players, regardless of course, the recruits, about to go to camp, the recruits, about to go to camp, the recruits, about to go to camp."

And as President Xavin and Manager Jennings have never insisted on my taking them, I cannot see the object in doing so.

"I am willing to do my share, and more, for the good of the Tigers, and I would consider myself doing unnecessary work on a training trip. For a man who is prone to taking on flesh, or for players who do not keep themselves in condition during the winter, a training trip is all right, but there are any number of players in the big leagues to whom a training trip is more of a detriment."

"They go south and they take off more flesh than they really should. They work under a broiling sun and they get tired out. When the time for the opening of the season comes, they are stale. For my part, I believe in doing light work throughout the winter, and when spring comes a week with the team puts me in mid-season form."

"I will probably join the team a week or so before the opening of next season."

CARNEY MAKES GREAT RUN IN BILLIARDS

DETROIT, Jan. 5.—Joe Carney of San Francisco, challenger for the world's three-cushion billiard championship, tonight, in a practice game with a local player, bettered the world's record by scoring 50 points in 11 innings. As the feat was not performed in a match game it does not displace the record of Frank Balfy of Kansas City, who scored 50 points in 12 innings, officially.

Alfred De Oro, world's champion, who defends his title here next week, watched Carney tonight as he made his extraordinary run. His comment was: "The better Carney is in practice the more honor it defeating him."

SMITH BEATS GEYER

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 5.—"Gunboat" Smith was given the decision over Denver Jack Geyer tonight after 10 rounds of interesting fighting. Neither man displayed much class. Jack Britton of Chicago was given a well-earned decision over Al Rogers, a local man, at the end of 10 rounds of fast fighting.

ELIMINATION BOUTS TO FIND MAN FOR WOLGAST

NEW YORK, Jan. 5.—James Johnson, manager for O. J. Moran, the English lightweight, received and accepted today the proposal of James C. Corbitt, the San Francisco promoter, that Moran enter an elimination bout in California next month to find a suitable challenger for Ad Wolgast, the lightweight champion.

Corbitt proposes that "One Round" Moran and Tommy Murphy enter the elimination contests of 20 rounds each, to pick the best man of the three to challenge Wolgast.

"MUTT AND JEFF" TODAY— MATINEE AND NIGHT

"Mutt and Jeff," which will be the attraction at the opera house today, January 6, matinee and night, is described as one of the funniest plays ever written. It is a dramatization of the cartoons of Bud Fisher of the same name, which have been attracting the attention of the entire country for the past year or so. This new play was constructed by Gus Hill, the well-known New York producer, who has spared no expense or time to make of it one of the best musical comedy productions ever sent on tour. The play is described as a musical comedy of a very high order, containing a laugh in every tick of the clock, and to be filled with all the laugh provoking situations the public has been led to expect. Fisher's "brain people" present very broad opportunities for a play of more than ordinary interest, and no lack of grasping these opportunities will be found when the play visits this city for the first time. More than 50 people will be cast in the production, including a chorus of the prettiest girls a city has to offer. The action of "Mutt and Jeff," while the object of interest will not be

"GET RICH QUICK— WALLINGFORD"

From the interest displayed in the coming of George M. Cohan's sensational comedy success, "Get Rich Quick Wallingford," at the opera house Tuesday night, January 8, direct from the Broadway, Denver, it would appear that every playgoer in this city intends to see the performance, while many which has been attraction America in years has so much to recommend it as has "The Love Tales of Hoffmann," and furthermore the English translation of which the Sheehan Opera company has the exclusive performing rights, is far superior to that of most foreign successes. Perhaps the greatest thing responsible for its American success is the magnificent cast, which Manager Edward M. Beck has brought together, comprising without doubt the foremost artists on the American stage. Headed by Joseph P. Sheehan, the greatest of all American tenors, who has the role of Hoffmann, the cast includes such artists as Miss Gladys Caldwell, said by many critics to be the American Tetrazzi. Miss Caldwell created the role of Olympia, the most beautiful girl in "Hoffmann" and her who cannot be classed as regular attendants but who have become familiar with Wallingford through the George Randolph Chester magazine stories, are probably waiting to see this ingenious rascal portrayed in flesh and blood. "Get Rich Quick Wallingford" has just ended a solid year's run in Chicago, breaking all records for a comedy, and comes here almost direct from the Windy City. At the same time a twin company has been delighting New York for the greater part of two seasons, and the verdict from both cities is that it is not only the best effort of George M. Cohan, but the cleverest American comedy of recent years. "Get Rich Quick Wallingford" deals with men and money—both absorbing subjects—with a tinge of romance to give it dramatic flavor. It shows how a missed when not on the stage, as the play has been considered so as to be sufficiently interesting without having to depend entirely on some two funny fellows. The best and most famous theatrical mechanics have been busy for months on the scenic production which will rival in beauty anything that Broadway has seen in years. Frank Hayden, head of the production, people working night and day on the costumes which are from the original designs furnished by A. J. P. of Paris.

"Mutt and Jeff" is a little bit on the order of "Little Johnny Jones," but will be presented on a much more elaborate scale. Matinee, 25c, 50c, 75c, and $1.00. Evening, 50c, 75c, $1.00 and $1.50. Seats selling at the box office.

wonderful performance is said to excel that of any of the European prima donnas. Miss Marion Walker, who plays the part of Nicklausen, the box friend of Hoffmann, was until last season's contract with the Metropolitan Opera company, rather notorious as Mr. Charles Siskind, the famous baritone of the Tivoli Opera company, of San Francisco. Mr. Francis J. Tyler, late basso with Henry W. Savage, Miss Annabel Tarlton, soprano with the International Opera company, William Young, tenor with the New York Italian Grand Opera company, and a half dozen others of like caliber. The chorus is deserving of special notice, as critics in Chicago, St. Louis, Cleveland, Detroit and other cities pronounce it the finest chorus, both in voice and beauty, ever heard in English opera in this country.

CELEBRITIES AT MAJESTIC TODAY

The bill opening a week's engagement at the Majestic this afternoon is notable for the number of celebrities who appear on the list of attractions, and because celebrities must be able to deliver the goods or they would not be celebrities. It follows that the show has some exceptionally clever features.

bered by local theatergoers as the hugely funny, satiric in-savages production of "The Sultan of Siam" is among them. It is Mr. Beck's initial audacious appearance in many years, and his forsaking the legitimate, for vaudeville is resolved with much favor. He will offer a farce, "The Show Girl," which will give him opportunity for portraying a character of "the aged farmer" who has advertised for a wife and which ought to permit of the end of bright comedy. The action is swift, the dialogue clever, with just a touch of pathos, and a splendid moral is brought out.

Will Oakland, the man whose wonderful "counter-tenor" is almost a "household voice" because of its use in making gramophone records, to say nothing of his theatrical reputation, is another celebrity on the list. Oakland sings as no other man can. As a tenor soloist for years with Decker and Oakland is known the country over.

Marie Dorr, one of the best-known of comic opera stars in the east, is another. This petite, clever young person, with a sweet voice, does some comical things that will be a hit. Then, by way of variety and pleasure for children as well as adults, is the troupe of trained French poodles of Miss. Pitt Bonay, which is one of the most enjoyable animal acts extant.

Good music by the concert orchestra and another of those great Rex films, first-run and exclusive with the Majestic, complete a bill that everybody will pronounce one of the best ever.

Performances at 2:45, 7:30 and 8:10. Admission only 10, 20 and 30 cents.

AUGUSTA COTTELOW'S ART ACCORDING TO THE LONDON CRITICS

The following excerpts from criticisms of Miss Cottelow's London recital are partially interesting, for the London critics are hard to please, and are not often found so unanimous as in this case:

The playing of Miss Cottelow is remarkable not for its technical finish only, but for the amount of sympathy with very different types of music which the pianist showed. The Times, which the pianist showed. The Times, which the pianist showed. The Times, which the pianist showed.
